BEWARE THE FURY OF A PATIENT MAN.—Dryden

The BETHEL OXFORD COUNTY CITIZEN

Volume XLVIII—Number 46

BETHEL, MAINE, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1942

Single Copy—FIVE CENTS

"Second Front" Started Saturday, North Africa

A Week of the War

"A powerful American force equipped with adequate weapons of modern warfare and under American command, is today landing on the Mediterranean and Atlantic coasts of the French colonies in Africa," President Roosevelt said in a statement issued by the White House late Nov. 7. This action "provides an effective second-front assistance to our heroic allies in Russia."

The U. S. force split into three parts and struck at Algiers, near Oran on the Mediterranean coast of Algeria, and on the Atlantic coast north and south of Casablanca. The War Department stated late Nov. 8 that the offensive was advancing rapidly everywhere along 1,600 miles of coast against light French resistance. Algiers capitulated within 24 hours. The Vichy government broke off diplomatic relations, but Secretary of State Hull said the main purpose of the Vichy policy of this Government during the past two years was simply to pave the way for the military drive into the western Mediterranean.

"The landing of this American Army is being assisted by the British navy and air forces and it will, in the immediate future, be reinforced by a considerable number of divisions of the British army," the President stated. "This combined Allied force...in conjunction with the British campaign in Egypt is designed to prevent an occupation by the Axis armies of any part of northern or western Africa, and to deny the aggressor nations a starting point from which to launch an attack against the Atlantic Coast of the Americas."

"The French Government and the French people have been informed of the purpose of this expedition, and have been assured that the Allies seek no territory and have no intention of interfering with the friendly French authorities in Africa," the President's statement said. "This expedition will develop into a major effort by the Allied Nations and there is every expectation that it will be successful in repelling the planned German and Italian invasion of Africa and prove the first historic step to the liberation and restoration of France."

Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of the American forces in the European theater, is commander in chief of the Allied invasion force. Gen. Eisenhower, in a broadcast to "Frenchmen of North Africa," promised not to attack the French themselves, upon certain conditions. These conditions were specific and he repeated them many times in his broadcast.

Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton's headquarters in Cairo reported Nov. 7 that American fliers shot down 45 enemy planes against a loss of six of their own in the Middle East from Oct. 1 to Nov. 6. In addition the announcement said, the U. S. fliers have seriously damaged an uncalculated number of tons of enemy shipping and knocked out a number of tanks and other motor vehicles.

The Navy announced that at least 5,188 Japanese, by actual count, have been killed in three months of land fighting in the Solomon Islands. Navy Secretary Knox reported earlier that U. S. casualties were less than one-fifth of Japanese losses. The Navy said 359 Japanese aircraft were destroyed there in October alone. A Navy communiqué late Nov. 8 reported the probable sinking of another

ALBANY MAN SHOT RIDING BICYCLE

Clarence McAllister was shot in his left leg about 5:15 p.m. Saturday while riding a bicycle near the Bumpus place in Albany. The bullet passed through the leg above the knee. The victim was taken to the Rumford Community Hospital. Richard Merriam of Auburn, who was hunting in the vicinity, alleged to have fired the shot, pleaded not guilty to a charge of negligent shooting in Norway municipal court Monday morning. Probable cause was found and he was bound over to the March term of Superior Court, $1,000 bail being furnished.

GOVERNMENT MUST KNOW WHOSE TIRES ARE GIVEN

Persons who turn in tires to the government through the Railway Express Agency should deliver them to the person in charge and give their name or any information required. Several tires have been left on the premises at the local station by unknown parties.

Jap cruiser and destroyer in the Solomons and said the advance of American troops eastward on Guadalcanal was continuing.

Controlled Materials Plan

The WPB established the Controlled Materials Plan to boost war production through elimination of all non-essential production. WPB Vice Chairman Eberstadt will direct the plan which will adjust production schedules within material supply to meet production requirements. The plan will operate as follows: the WPB Requirements Committee will allot controlled materials (at first only carbon and alloy steel, copper and aluminum) to the "claimant agencies"—Army, Navy, Maritime Commission, the Aircraft Scheduling Unit, Lend-Lease, Board of Economic Warfare and Office of Civilian Supply. The claimant agencies will then make allotments to prime contractors producing essential goods. The prime contractors will divide their allotments among subcontractors and suppliers.

Rationing

The Office of Price Administration announced all passenger cars will be eligible for recapping services or for replacement tires under the national mileage program effective Nov. 22, but motorists will be limited by quotas to be assigned to rationing boards. The grade of tire allowed, in case recapping is impossible, will be determined by the amount of mileage allowed applicants in their gas ration books. Motorists asking more mileage than the basic ration must furnish specific detailed information about their driving requirements on forms issued by OPA and available from Nov. 12-15 at schoolhouses designated as registration sites. If the applicant's essential mileage is more than 160 miles a month, but less than 470, he will be issued a B book. Mileage of more than 470 miles will warrant a C book. Holders of C books must display stickers on their windshields indicating why they were granted extra gasoline.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert R. Rowe of Alna spent the week-end in town. Their daughter, Margery, who has been with her grandmother, Mrs. H. C. Rowe, the past three weeks, returned with them.

GOULD'S TOTAL SCORE SAME AS OPPONENTS'

If the success of a football team depended only on victories, the season of 1942 would not be considered successful. The season opened with 41 men reporting for practice, but due to the heavy loss of regulars through graduation, this large number included only Hawkins, Davis, Reid, and Coolidge as veterans from last year. Practice got under way rather slowly as the large squad of untried players began to work out.

The following is the 1942 schedule and results.

Gould 0—Hebron Reserves	0
Gould 13—Norway	25
Gould 0—South Paris	6
Gould 18—Littleton, N. H.	0

Not until the season was more than half over did the "Blue and Gold" finally discover that they could play ball with the best of the clubs. Their 18-0 victory over a good Littleton club and a scoreless tie with an excellent Wilton Academy eleven was proof that they had really improved. This gradual development makes the 1942 team a success, as they proved they had the power to stick through and fight in defeat until they became strong enough to really dish it out themselves.

The real discouraging factor for 1942 was the fact that of the 41 boys who started the season, only 21 finished. That meant that 20 boys quit during the season, some, of course, with a good reason, but most of them for no reason at all. Of the 21 who remained, great credit can be given and certainly they gained enough from their football to say they were a success.

During the final games, five boys were selected by a committee of faculty members. These five were chosen for the following qualifications:

- The best tackling—Dave Hawkins
 - The best blocking—Pete Rosenberg
 - The smartest playing—Henry Emery
 - The most improved—Francis Gilman
 - The best "all around"—Jim Reid
- As a reward for their fine work, these boys with their coaches, Fortier and Myers, attended the Bates-Colby State Series Game at Lewiston on Nov. 11.

Davis Sawmill Burned To Ground Last Night

CO. 4, M. S. G. RESERVE NEEDS MORE MEN

Local members of the Maine State Guard Reserve, organized as the 4th Company, meet for instruction and drill at the Gould Academy field house every Monday evening. The requirements for attendance are strict and the greater part of the membership is present at every meeting. Although interest remains at a high point, there is room for a few additional men to take the place of several who have left the vicinity or entered the armed forces.

Much of the time has been devoted to regular drill and good progress has been made, while recently the company has taken up phases of guerrilla warfare. This type of training will be most likely to be needed if the companies are called for duty, and it is receiving serious attention.

The company is in charge of Capt. Leslie Coburn, who organized the Home Guard company (American Legion Brigade) a year ago. The greater part of the membership of the original company transferred to the Reserve company last summer, when the Home Guard was discontinued by State orders. Since then the enrollment has doubled and interest and attendance largely increased.

It is believed that there are many in and around Bethel who should join this company. The requirements are not strict. There is a physical examination, and the members buy their uniforms. Through a generous fund created by public contributions last year for the Home Guard, it is possible for the members to have ample time to pay for the uniforms. Members also furnish their own arms.

Here is an opportunity for a worthwhile patriotic service. There are few men who cannot spare one evening a week, and there many in the company who expend considerable effort and endure some inconvenience in attending regularly. Is it asking too much for a few more men to so arrange their hours of idleness, sport, or pleasure, so as to spend Monday evening every week in State Guard Reserve drill?

The group at present includes men in their teens and in their 60's, few of whom are attending for the fun of it. They do enjoy the drill and other activity, but there is no doubt of the serious interest of the group in organizing for a definite patriotic effort.

Meetings have generally been open to the public, but with the new training it is expected that visitors will not be admitted. Men interested should contact Captain Coburn during the week.

LUCE-Scribner

Miss Bertha Mae Scribner of South Paris and Leon Wilfred Luce of Mexico were united in marriage at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. M. A. Gordon Tuesday evening, Nov. 10. The double ring service was performed. They were attended by John S. Russell and Mrs. Evelyn Russell of South Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Burns were in Hanover, N. H., over the week-end, where they attended the funeral of their son-in-law, Lt. Philip Thornton, Sunday. Mrs. Thornton returned with her parents.

The sawmill of Leslie Davis on the Middle Intervale road was burned last night with a loss estimated at $4,000 or more. There was no insurance. The fire apparently started inside the mill and the whole structure was ablaze when discovered.

There was much delay in getting the apparatus to the scene of the fire, although once there no time was lost in getting water through the hose. Apparently the location of the fire was not understood by central when first notified and then the alarm did not operate for some time after an attempt was made at the office, so many of the firemen were notified individually by phone. In the meantime the old fire bell was rung, and finally the whistle was made to operate by the switch at the fire station.

The Davis planer mill, situated only a few feet from the sawmill, was not set afire, although the breeze from the blaze carried embers several hundred feet to the Davis home across the road. A considerable amount of newly sawed lumber on the platform and near the mill was damaged, as well as some logs nearby.

This morning Mr. Davis had made no definite plans, although he expects to rebuild.

The mill has been operated this fall by Ernest Blake and Richard Davis, sawing to date some 600,000 feet of pine from the "fair grounds" lot. It is expected that the timber which was to be sawed here will be taken to other mills in the vicinity, not now in operation, until the plant is rebuilt.

JACKSON PROMOTED TO POSITION AT ROCKLAND

Charles H. Peterson, present District Superintendent at Pittsfield, will become District Superintendent at Norway, and H. L. Peterson started work with the Company in 1931 in the Bath local crew and in the same year went to Freeport as Town Representative. White Mountain National Forest
THE KILKENNY WILDLIFE
MANAGEMENT AREA on the White Mountain National Forest will be opened to hunting next Monday, November 16th. The open season will continue through November 30th.

Before entering the area to hunt prospective hunters should secure special hunting permit required on this area. This permit may be secured free of charge from Guard Joe Piper at the entrance to the area on the Kilkenny Road. Certain rules and regulations in effect on the area are posted at various points and should be read by those hunting there. The area as its name implies is a game management area, as such studies are made of the game taker and the case of deer various measurements are made to determine the quality of deer which is being produced on the area and whether the area is properly suited for the raising of deer in larger numbers than are already on the area. It is hoped that even though the season is shorter than usual the hunters may be successful in bagging their deer, or other game which they may be after.

IF ANY SKIERS HAVE AN OPPORTUNITY to come to the White Mountains this winter they will find the ski trails in the vicinity of Tuckerman Ravine and Pinkham Notch well mowed and maintained. For the past several days Guard Smith has been supervising a crew which is at work putting the ski trails in shape for the winter. First aid caches are also being maintained as skiers make considerable use of these during the winter season.

GUARD McLAIN IS AT WORK IN WILD RIVER this week preparing the area for the winter. One of the jobs is closing the West Royce lookout tower which is a secondary tower and used only during extreme fire danger. The frosty nights and cool days do not make for extreme fire danger. In closing the tower it must be made secure against the severe winter weather which prevails on the high peaks. The windows are covered with heavy wooden shutters which keep out the weather and add to the protection of the interior of the tower.

TIMBER SALE BUSINESS ON the district has slowed down somewhat during the past several days probably due to the "between seasons" period. Wood may shortly be classified as "war material." Its importance in the war effort can not be over estimated. "Wood in a Test Tube," a Forest Service sponsored film recently shown at the Ritz Theatre in Gorham. This film showed the part which wood is playing in the war industries, and the many uses to which it is adaptable. From wood is made plywood for covering certain types of airplanes, timbers for wooden ships and landing barges. But most important is the plastics which are being made from wood, and which are finding literally thousands of uses in the industries responsible for supplying our armed forces. The film was most interesting and well received by those who saw it.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

A birthday party was given to Mrs. Jesse Doyen by Mrs. Charles Freeman and Mrs. Sidney Dyke at the home of Mrs. Ralph Perry last Wednesday evening. Bridge was enjoyed. First prize was won by Mrs. Laurence Lord, second, Mrs. Jesse Doyen, third, Mrs. Loton Hutchinson. Mrs. Doyen received many lovely gifts. Refreshments were served.

Those present were Mrs. Ralph Berry, Mrs. Wesley Wheeler, Mrs. Viola Lord, Mrs. Charles Gorman, Mrs. Ray York, Mrs. James Croteau, Mrs. Henry Flint, Mrs. Loton Hutchinson, Mrs. Laurence Lord, the hostesses and guest of honor.

If all U. S. drivers of passenger autos in 1940 had cut down their driving 10 per cent, they would have saved 160,000 years of round-the-clock travel time at a rate of 35 miles an hour.

GETTING NATURAL PICTURES

Put your subject at ease, if you want to get snapshots with human-interest appeal like this.

PHOTOGRAPHY, as you have probably found out, is a very personal art. It is one of the creative avocations, or vocations, as the case may be, of which thousands of people can consider themselves masters. And, naturally, with such popularity there are many formulas and theories for success.

Most of us, however, aren't concerned with theories. What we want to know is how to make a good picture—a snapshot which will look natural and attractive.

Really, that's not too difficult. Naturalness depends almost entirely upon putting your subject at ease—so your first duty as a photographer is to encourage him to relax and forget about the camera. And that can't be accomplished by such a bold direction as "Stand over there while I take your picture." At such a command he becomes not only self-conscious but camera-conscious, and the final result is an ordinary "posed" snapshot.

Right there you'll find your answer. Most people aren't able to relax and look natural—like the soldier in our illustration—unless they are doing something which is familiar to them. So . . . show them in action . . . not necessarily fast action . . . and you'll have solved more than half your problem.

That means that in a sense you've got to be a picture director as well as a cameraman. And the direction is important because most people don't know what to do in front of a camera. You should either encourage them to keep on with what they were doing, or else create a situation. And that "situation" must fit in well with the character of your subject if you want your picture "tell" a good story. For instance, Dad might look quite natural polishing the car—but he'd look rather "out of character" trying to darn a sock.

Picture making by intelligent direction becomes more fun both for you and your subjects. They'll enjoy getting into the game, and the change in their attitude will make a great difference and improvement in your pictures.

John van Gulder

MAINE IN WASHINGTON

(from the office of Senator Ralph O. Brewster)

As Goes Maine So Goes The Nation

For the first time in a good many years the country seems to be moving back to its old moorings in the adage "AS MAINE GOES SO GOES THE NATION."

This was widely commented on as the election returns flowed in and the Republican tide continued steadily to rise.

The Maine delegation in Congress was naturally the recipient of a great many good natured congratulations as the symbol of those who have kept the faith through all the dizzy decade that is now past.

Particularly was this the case when an erroneous radio report indicated that Vermont was perhaps wobbling in its political allegiance. This proved to be an error but tended to accentuate the staunch stand of Maine.

Reverberations in Washington

Washington has been revoting most of this past week to digesting the implications of this remarkable reversal in the political trend. All sorts of situations are profoundly affected and this will become more and more manifest as the days and weeks go by.

The effect on administration policies must inevitably be profound since there has long been a substantial element in the Democratic Party who were not in sympathy with many of the measures that have been pressed in recent years but they were not in a position to make their protests effective because of the substantial majority in both House and Senate possessed by the Democratic leadership.

Now all this is changed and a trend toward a coalition government was immediately apparent.

Coalition Government
Coalition of those members of the House and Senate who are exclusively interested in the vigorous and efficient prosecution of the war is the possibility that looms on the horizon.

There has been a growing feeling that the legislative changes in our social and economic structure with which we have been experimenting in the past decade were being accelerated under the guise of the war emergency and this has aroused increasing concern. This tendency is now likely to be checked since it seems entirely evident that the people have indicated their disapproval and there is ample representation in both Houses now without regard to party lines to follow along somewhat the more traditional lines in coping with the war without seeking to alter radically our social or economic structure during the emergency.

War Emergency

Profound changes are inevitable in the total war in which we are now engaged but it will not be contemplated that these changes shall outlast the emergency and this limitation will more and more constantly appear in connection with various measures that are now considered.

Maine Potatoes

The change in the price ceiling on potatoes was finally accomplished this past week to the profound gratification of everyone concerned. This alteration in the ceiling has moved with unprecedented speed as it is almost the first of the agricultural products to be relieved from the blanket order of early October.

The presentation of the case by representatives of the potato industry in Maine under the leadership of Carl R. Smith, the Commissioner of Agriculture, and the continued agitation of the matter by the Maine delegation in Washington resulted in what is recognized in Washington as most speedy action when one contemplates the nationwide impact of the emergency order and the great variety of the products that were affected.

With a price ceiling approximating $3 a barrel the Maine growers will be able to go forward this season with some confidence that they can at least secure a new dollar for an old.

Agricultural Labor

Meanwhile prompt approval is anticipated of the provision protecting agricultural labor under the Selective Service Act so that we shall have the food with which to fight the war and this will materially assist the Maine agricultural picture this coming year.

Maine Lumber

Maine lumber is attracting more and more attention in Washington and plans are now far along for stimulating very materially the production of lumber in Maine this coming year. The labor problems enter this picture also and are receiving constant consideration both with regard to supplies of labor in Maine and also to the possibility of securing the assistance from Canadian labor across the border.

The labelling of the corn packed at H. F. Webb Co.'s Bethel factory is being done this week.

Owing to broken shafting the chair factory has not been running for several days.

Dr. I. H. Wight, F. L. Edwards, Philip Chapman and Roscoe Andrews were in Hebron, Saturday, to attend the Hebron-Kent's Hill football game.

Canvassers were busy last week getting the Conservation of Food cards signed and all met with very good results. Every family in town will have to be accounted for before the work is finished.

NOUS JEUNES FILLES CLUB

The 10 tramps who roved around town last Thursday night, Nov. 5, fared exceptionally well.

After they had collected generous "hand outs" they returned to the Methodist Church to eat their supper.

The regular meeting was held afterward. In order to earn money for the club it was voted to have a "rainy and sunny day contest" for the next two months. Rita Davis and Mary Rice were chosen for captains.

The president, Barbara Luxton, invited the club to meet at her home Nov. 19.

UPTON

Mrs. C. A. Judkins, Correspondent Judkins-Brownell

On Sunday, Nov. 1, Albert Edward Judkins of Upton and Miss Thelma Ruth Brownell of Hope were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents. About 35 relatives and friends gathered to witness the pretty ceremony, conducted by Rev. Melvin Dorr Jr., pastor of the Baptist Church in Camden. The groom had asked his father, C. A. Judkins of this town, to perform the ceremony, but owing to shortage of gas and tires and numerous duties at home, he could not take the long trip. However, Mrs. C. A. Judkins and daughter, Ruth (mother and sister of the groom), made the trip by bus and train. The bride wore a gown of dark blue crepe and a bouquet of white sweet peas. The room was attractively decorated with white and silver crepe paper. The bride was given in marriage by her father, D. E. Brownell. Refreshments of cake and punch were served after the wedding. The bride cut the first piece from the wedding cake. The couple will reside at present with the bride's parents.

Mrs. Annie Coolidge has moved to Berlin, N. H., for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Whitney have moved to Ridgelyville for the winter.

Miss Frances Fuller of Camden is visiting her father, Leslie Fuller.

A grass fire, which would have burned H. W. Whitney's garage, but for the timely arrival of E. S. Lane, called out all the available men in town one day last week.

CHANGING SCENE

Production and distribution of razors and razor blades have been placed under tighter restrictions. Safety razors will be made only for the armed services, razor blades output will be divided between the armed forces, our lend-lease allies, and civilians. And production of straight razors will cease altogether on Jan. 1, the industry already is turning out commando knives....

Milk cans and wire fencing used on farms will be rationed through the Department of Agriculture.... And all new farm machinery and equipment except repair parts has been frozen in the hands of dealers until a permanent rationing system has been worked out.... Use of new burlap bags will be restricted to sacking up barley, beans and peas, dairy products, potatoes, rice, rock salt, feeds and meals for animal consumption, dried fruits, nuts, seeds, raw sugar, wheat, wool and wool products and a few other items.... The shortage of essential farm workers on livestock, dairy and poultry farms is being met by a program for stabilizing employment in these fields. Local Selective Service Boards are being requested to grant occupational deferments to "necessary" men and war industries have been instructed to stop recruiting such workers for industrial labor.... Increased home consumption of gas, to supplement or take the place of other fuels, threatens the supply of gas needed for war industries, especially in the manufacture of synthetic rubber and chemicals, we'll all have to be more thrifty in burning gas at home.... Modern life with its ceaseless hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking, exposure, contagion, whistling, keeps doctors busy, hospitals crowded. The after effects are disturbing to the kidneys and oftentimes people suffer without knowing that disordered kidney action may cause the trouble.

After colds, fever and similar ills there is an increase of body impurities the kidneys must filter from the blood. If the kidneys are overtaxed and fail to remove excess acid and other harmful waste, there is poisoning of the whole system.

FACING THE FACTS ABOUT WAR FINANCE

No. 3 Here in the third of a series of pictorialized articles prepared by the Tax Foundation, is presented the over-all picture of federal expenditures and the taxes and borrowing made necessary in order to meet them. The United States, contrary to past illusions, is not a nation of limitless wealth. War costs, which may total an average of $6,000 to $8,000 for every family of four in the country, can endanger our whole economy. The problem which this danger presents can be solved—but only if we all go to work on it together. America has been built upon faith in the wisdom of the majority of the people. To continue to fulfill that faith, we must have facts. The purpose of this series is to give the average American a better understanding of the whole problem of war finance which is of utmost importance to every one of us.

1. What will be the amount of all government spending under our war program?

For the twelve months ending June 30, 1943, Federal spending is expected to reach an all-time record of $76.1 billion — eight times the amount spent in 1940. This total includes $67 billion budgeted for war, $3 billion to government corporations for war purposes and $6 billion for non-war spending. In addition, state and local expenditures will probably continue at about $10 billion, making a total of over $86 billion for all governments — federal, state and local.

2. How much of the federal spending will be covered by taxes?

Only about 30% of the expenditures will be raised in 1943 under current revenue proposals in a full year of operation. In order to minimize the risks of topheavy borrowing, probably about 40% should be collected.

3. How much will the government have to borrow?

Approximately $50 billion in 1943, and more in later years unless a higher percentage is collected in taxes than present measures propose.

4. How will this spending affect our federal debt?

It will increase the debt rapidly. The debt is estimated at $125.7 billion by June 30, 1943. If approximately 40% of our estimated spending is collected in taxes thereafter, it should not exceed $225 to $230 billion by June 30, 1945. Higher prices and a failure to collect more than 30% in taxes will, of course, increase this debt materially.

*This does not include $1.3 billion to government corporations for non-war purposes.

GOULD ACADEMY

Armistice Day Observance

The following program was carried out in regular assembly meeting Wednesday morning, Nov. 11: Singing of America, Pledge to the Flag, and the Lord's Prayer, followed by an address on Armistice Day given by Rev. Herbert T. Wallace, pastor of the Congregational Church.

Mr. Wallace described the type of celebration that was carried out 24 years ago when the Armistice was announced in this country, and went on to show how the high ideals for which we fought at that time had been allowed to slip from our grasp, and the intervening 24 years had proved nothing more or less than one long Armistice between wars which are being fought primarily for the same purpose; namely to maintain the democratic way of life with its many freedoms. He brought out the fact that if we are to accomplish at the end of this war what we really attempted to do at the end of the last one, we must plan definitely for the future and know equally well just what we are fighting for. He said that the boys and girls in his audience would be the ones who would have to see this matter fulfilled if the present war ends to bring the fruits of idealism for which we are being led to believe we are fighting.

Harry M. Nelson, Executive Manager of the Savings Bank Association of Maine, spoke at a special assembly at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, Nov. 10. He traced briefly the history of banking in Maine, and also the history of the savings from their very inception in Scotland over a century ago. He compared briefly the savings banks and national banks, and explained the purpose of the Federal Reserve system. The primary note of his talk was thrift. One point which he brought out in importance was his belief that the reason for the depression several years ago was due to the spending policies of the government and individuals with a like disregard for thrift, which meant that we spent more in six years than could be earned in seven-and-a-half years, with the result that the whole nation became more or less bankrupt, and a halt in spending became imperative. One of the interesting sidelights of his talk was a personal reference to ex-President Coolidge, who was a student in St. Johnsbury Academy, in St. Johnsbury, Vt., at the same time Mr. Nelson was there.

Those Precious, Humble Joys

I used to love to go to see Hannah on Friday afternoons. That was her time to bake, and the house would be full of spicy, brown fragrance. I'd sit in the kitchen while she beat rich-looking batter in a yellow crock or rolled soft dough on a well-floured board, or chopped citron and raisins and nuts in a little wooden bowl. When everything was finally in the oven, she'd take down an old blue pot and presently we'd have delicious tea with nut-studded cookies, hot from the oven.

But alas, last Friday when I went to Hannah's for the first time this fall, there was no warm kitchen aroma and no flour-smudged Hannah to greet me. Instead I found her sweater-wrapped, tight lipped, going over a pile of newspaper clippings in her chilly living room.

"But isn't this your baking day?" I asked shamelessly. "Aren't there any brownies or pumpkin pies, or sponge cake in your oven?"

"Dear me, no! I've given up all unnecessary baking," she said. "Because you haven't enough sugar?" I suggested. "I could give you some of mine."

"Because we're at war and it's up to all of us to serve our country... and so I'm getting ready to make a speech at the Air Spotters meeting next week, and later this afternoon I have a scrap committee meeting, and then there's my First Aid Class..." She was breathless with responsibilities.

"But, Hannah," I began in protest and then held my tongue, although I continued to think how much her days of baking and hospitality had meant to her family, busy now on war work.

Isn't it a mistake for Hannah to let her home be less welcoming and her daily life less gracious because of the war? So much of our life must be different now with millions of men already in uniform and more millions concentrating on production in our great industrial plants. Shouldn't we keep our home life and everything else as normal as we possibly can,

We are fighting this war for the sake of the preservation of the American way of life which finds its fountainhead in the homes of our country. We are fighting to preserve the peace and security of our homes so that any threatened new orders may not come into our lives to change us as they have the millions of people who cringe under the lash of the dictators. What irony it would be to win the war but through neglect of our homes and our ideals to lose those precious humble joys that underlie Americanism.

THE LOW DOWN FROM

HICKORY GROVE

I see where the longshoremen under Mr. Bridges out on the Coast have a 6 hour day. I don't see anything about a 6 hour day for the Marines—just longshoremen have it. But Mr. Bridges says our first job is to win the war. How to do so at 6 hours per day, Mr. Bridges explains that too. The 6 hours is at regular pay but the men want to work 8—so 2 hours is overtime. Not a bad idea. But the 6 hour regular time is only between 8 in the morning and 5 in the afternoon. All other hours are overtime time, also.

Boats don't all come in just between 8 and 5 in the daytime, so work at all other times is 100 per cent overtime. Yep, this is the low-down. It is going on right now. A Govt. man has okayed the arrangement—it's the law.

LEND-LEASE

From the United Nations to the U. S.

With U. S. forces in Africa and the Southwest Pacific, in England, the Middle East and India, reciprocal lend-lease to the U. S. covers everything from fanbelts for army trucks to lumber barracks. American fighter pilots are fitted with British Spitfires, and troopships are conveyed by British warships. Australian and New Zealand aid already compares in volume to U. S. lend-lease help to both countries. The Netherlands, Fighting France, and India provide raw materials for U. S. industries, food and shelter for our fighting men. Belgium provides 25% of the tin used in United Nations factories. This is how lend-lease is now working both ways.

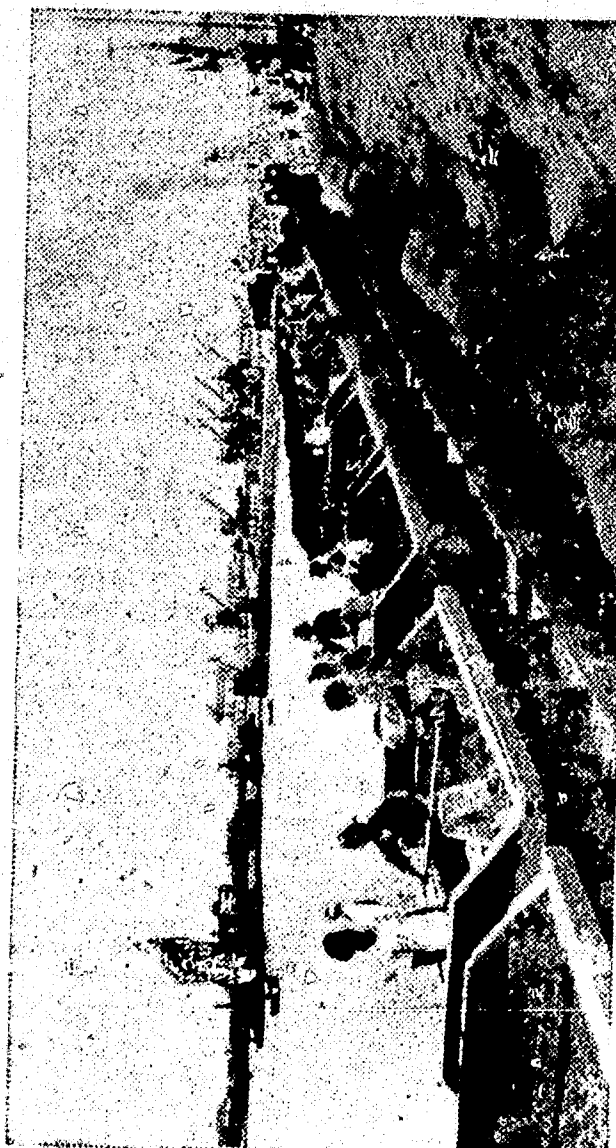

India is housing thousands of U. S. service and supply troops, in return for armaments, planes, guns and tanks. To U. S. troops, Great Britain has furnished munitions, and various other kinds of supplies of war.

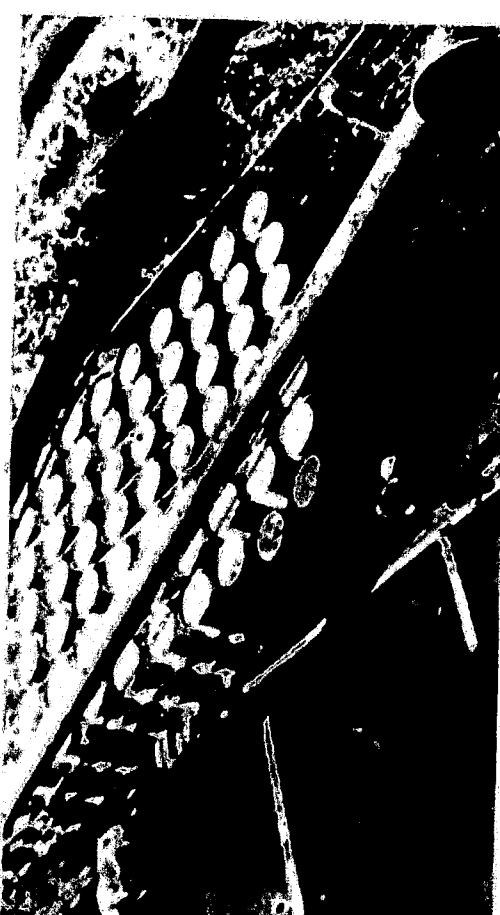

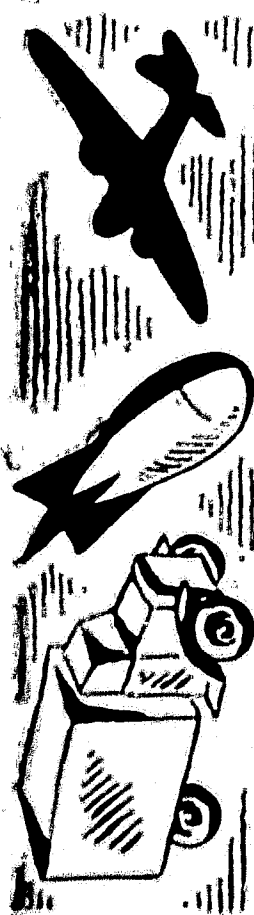

Belgian Congo miners drill copper ore for the Allies—Belgian Lend-Lease includes industrial diamonds and radium.

British barrage balloons were rushed to America after Pearl Harbor, as U. S. production was still low. Today they guard California factories and Panama.

Free French mineral ore is mined in the interior of French Equatorial Africa, and, together with rubber, is shipped to U. S. industries for use in armaments.

Dutch West Indies supply U. S. planes with highly refined aviation gas, while in Australia (below) workmen construct a giant water tower near a new airfield for U. S. pilots.

New Zealand lumber is cut and constructed into barracks to shelter increasing numbers of U. S. soldiers and sailors.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The "Stovepipe," as the 60-millimeter trench mortar is commonly known, is used by our infantry for close-in fighting. It fires a 2.4-pound shell at the rate of about 35 a minute.

The mortar fires its projectile in U-shaped arc and for this reason may be successfully camouflaged behind an obstruction. It costs about $60. You and your neighbors, joining together, can buy many of these effective weapons for use of our army. Investing at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds very payday will do the job. Get in the firing line on the home front. Join the "Ten Percent Club."

Military motorcycles, for couriers, for speeding light guns from one section to another, are an important part of America's mechanized army. Many are equipped with sidecars for use of staff officers. They cost from $400 to $450.

We need thousands of these small maneuverable machines in our Army today. You and your neighbors, all buying War Bonds and Stamps, can help buy them for the Army. Invest at least ten percent of your income every payday in War Bonds and Stamps and become a member of the patriotic "Ten Percent Club." It is rapidly becoming the largest club in the world.

BETHEL-KNIT SOCKS RECEIVED BY R. A. F. MAN IN ICELAND

An interesting letter of thanks was received last week by Mrs. Fred Douglass from a young man in the R. A. F., who received socks knit by Mrs. Douglass for the British War Relief Society. Besides bringing assurance that the work of local ladies has reached its destination, the letter tells of the boys' life in camp, which we know interests our readers.

Dear Mrs. Douglass,
I am writing to thank you for your gift of socks which I have received from the British War Relief Society, U. S. A. Needless to say they are very much appreciated, especially in this country, as it gets a little chilly in the winter. I don't wish to bore you but perhaps you would be interested to know a little of the chap who is wearing your socks. I have been in the R. A. F. for 18 months now. I joined when I was 19 and was at the time a civil servant in the Post Office. My work in the R. A. F. is totally different as I am an armorer, which means that my job is to maintain guns of all types. Although it is so different it is very interesting. Unfortunately I cannot tell you more on this subject, but even if I could it would no doubt bore you and I'll describe our off duty hours.

When the weather permits we play football. Of course this is different from your American game. Another sport which we indulge in, in the billet, is boxing. No English unit would be complete without a dart-board and we have ours. There is also a table tennis tournament held but I am not so keen on this game. We have a dance-band and orchestras which perform at our concerts. These are held each Sunday and are known as "Sunday Night at Eight." At these all our local talent is pressed into service and we have some very enjoyable evenings. None of the chaps are keen on going out after duty and so we have a cinema and whist-drive every night. On the whole we have a decent time but of course we will all be glad to get back to our people in Blighty when this job of work is finished.

My best wishes to you all on the West of the Atlantic and thanks once again.

Yours sincerely,
Robert Manning.
